Our Approach

focused on Prevention rather than Cure

We are a modern and progressive boutique law firm based in Athens, Greece.

We provide business counsel and comprehensive legal advice to our clients, combining local expertise with a global perspective.

Client care is the hallmark of our service.

We aim to achieve best results for our clients providing commercially driven legal solutions.

Our vision is focused on prevention rather than cure; and we pride ourselves on “looking around the corner” for our clients – anticipating problems before they occur.

However, if a dispute threatens or it has already materialized, we are there to help them reach an efficient and satisfactory resolution. We have developed an effective litigation and advocacy practice, so that we are poised to pursue tenaciously our clients’ interests in the Courtroom, or by way of alternative dispute resolution (arbitration, mediation, settlement) when required.

Whatever the situation, our advice is always tailored to each client’s unique needs and circumstances.

Our clientele consists of national and multinational corporations operating in a wide variety of business sectors. This unique blend of clients and activities is giving us the knowledge and experience to come up with solutions for even the most unique and difficult cases.

Our Advantage

Business View with a Legal Eye

Our practice is challenging the norms of the traditional law firm.

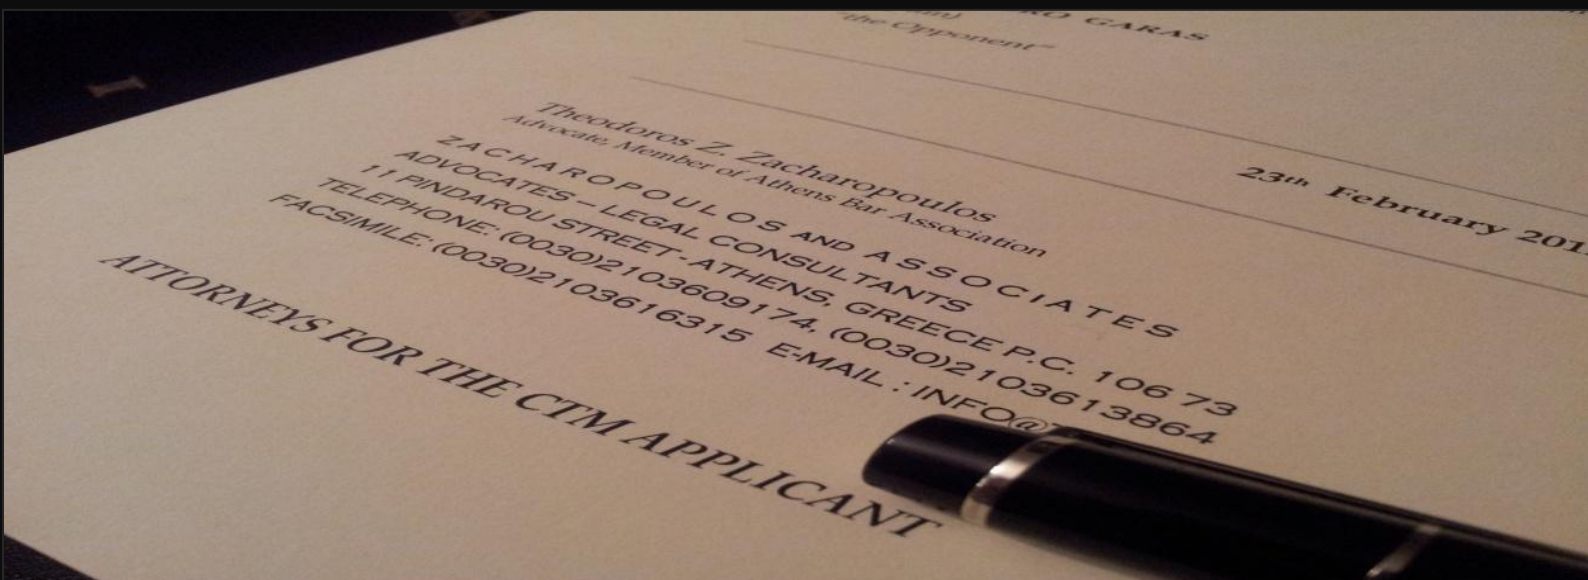

We have a deep understanding of business environment which allows us to look at things differently;
we understand legal issues from a businessperson's perspective rather than from a purely legal or academic point of view.

Our motto "Business View with a Legal Eye" particularly encapsulates the principles of our practice.

Thus, to ensure that our clientele receives the best legal services available, we are always striving to understand our clients' business operations, challenges and objectives;
because our legal advice should be as pragmatic and solution-oriented as it is technically excellent.

At Zacharopoulos & Associates we aim to exceed your expectations and are committed to your commercial success.
